CAN'T STOP
US NOW

Whether it's sports, academics or the stigmas attached to our reputation, true Raiders know that you Can't Stop Us Now!

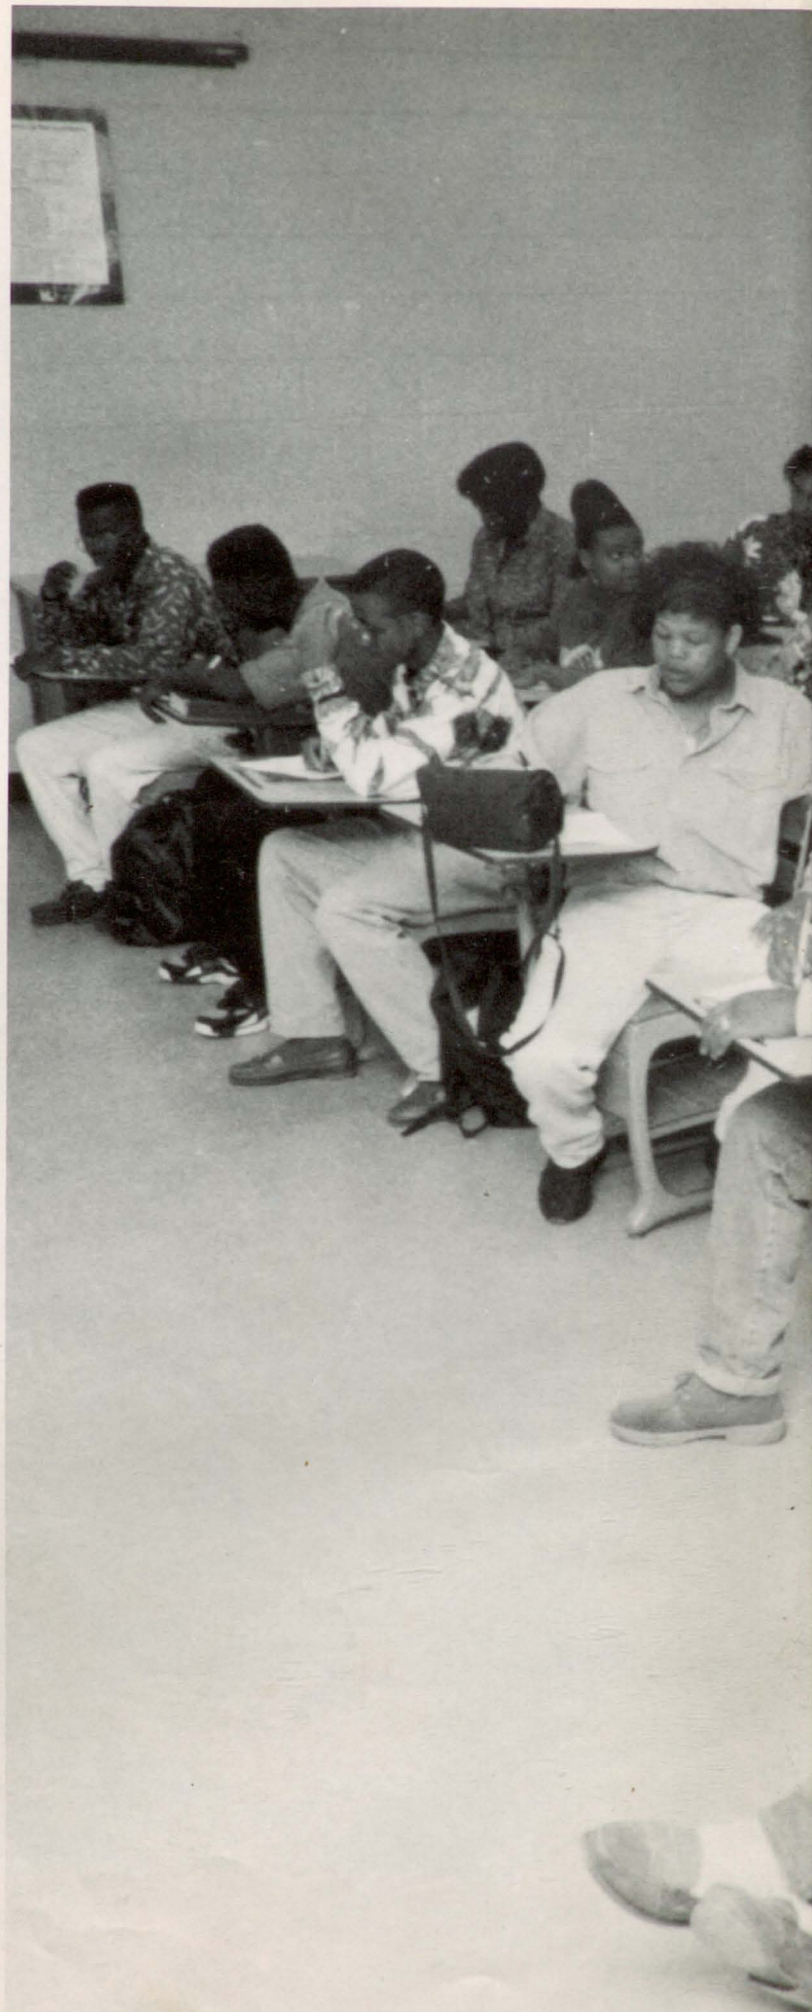

As students we enter a classroom for the first time each year experiencing joy, laughter nervousness, excitement, and silliness.

With each new year we begin with a clean slate and a fresh attitude in anticipation that this year will be one of the best yet. We look forward to finding out who is in each of our classes. We eagerly await getting our schedules to see if we got the classes we signed up for!

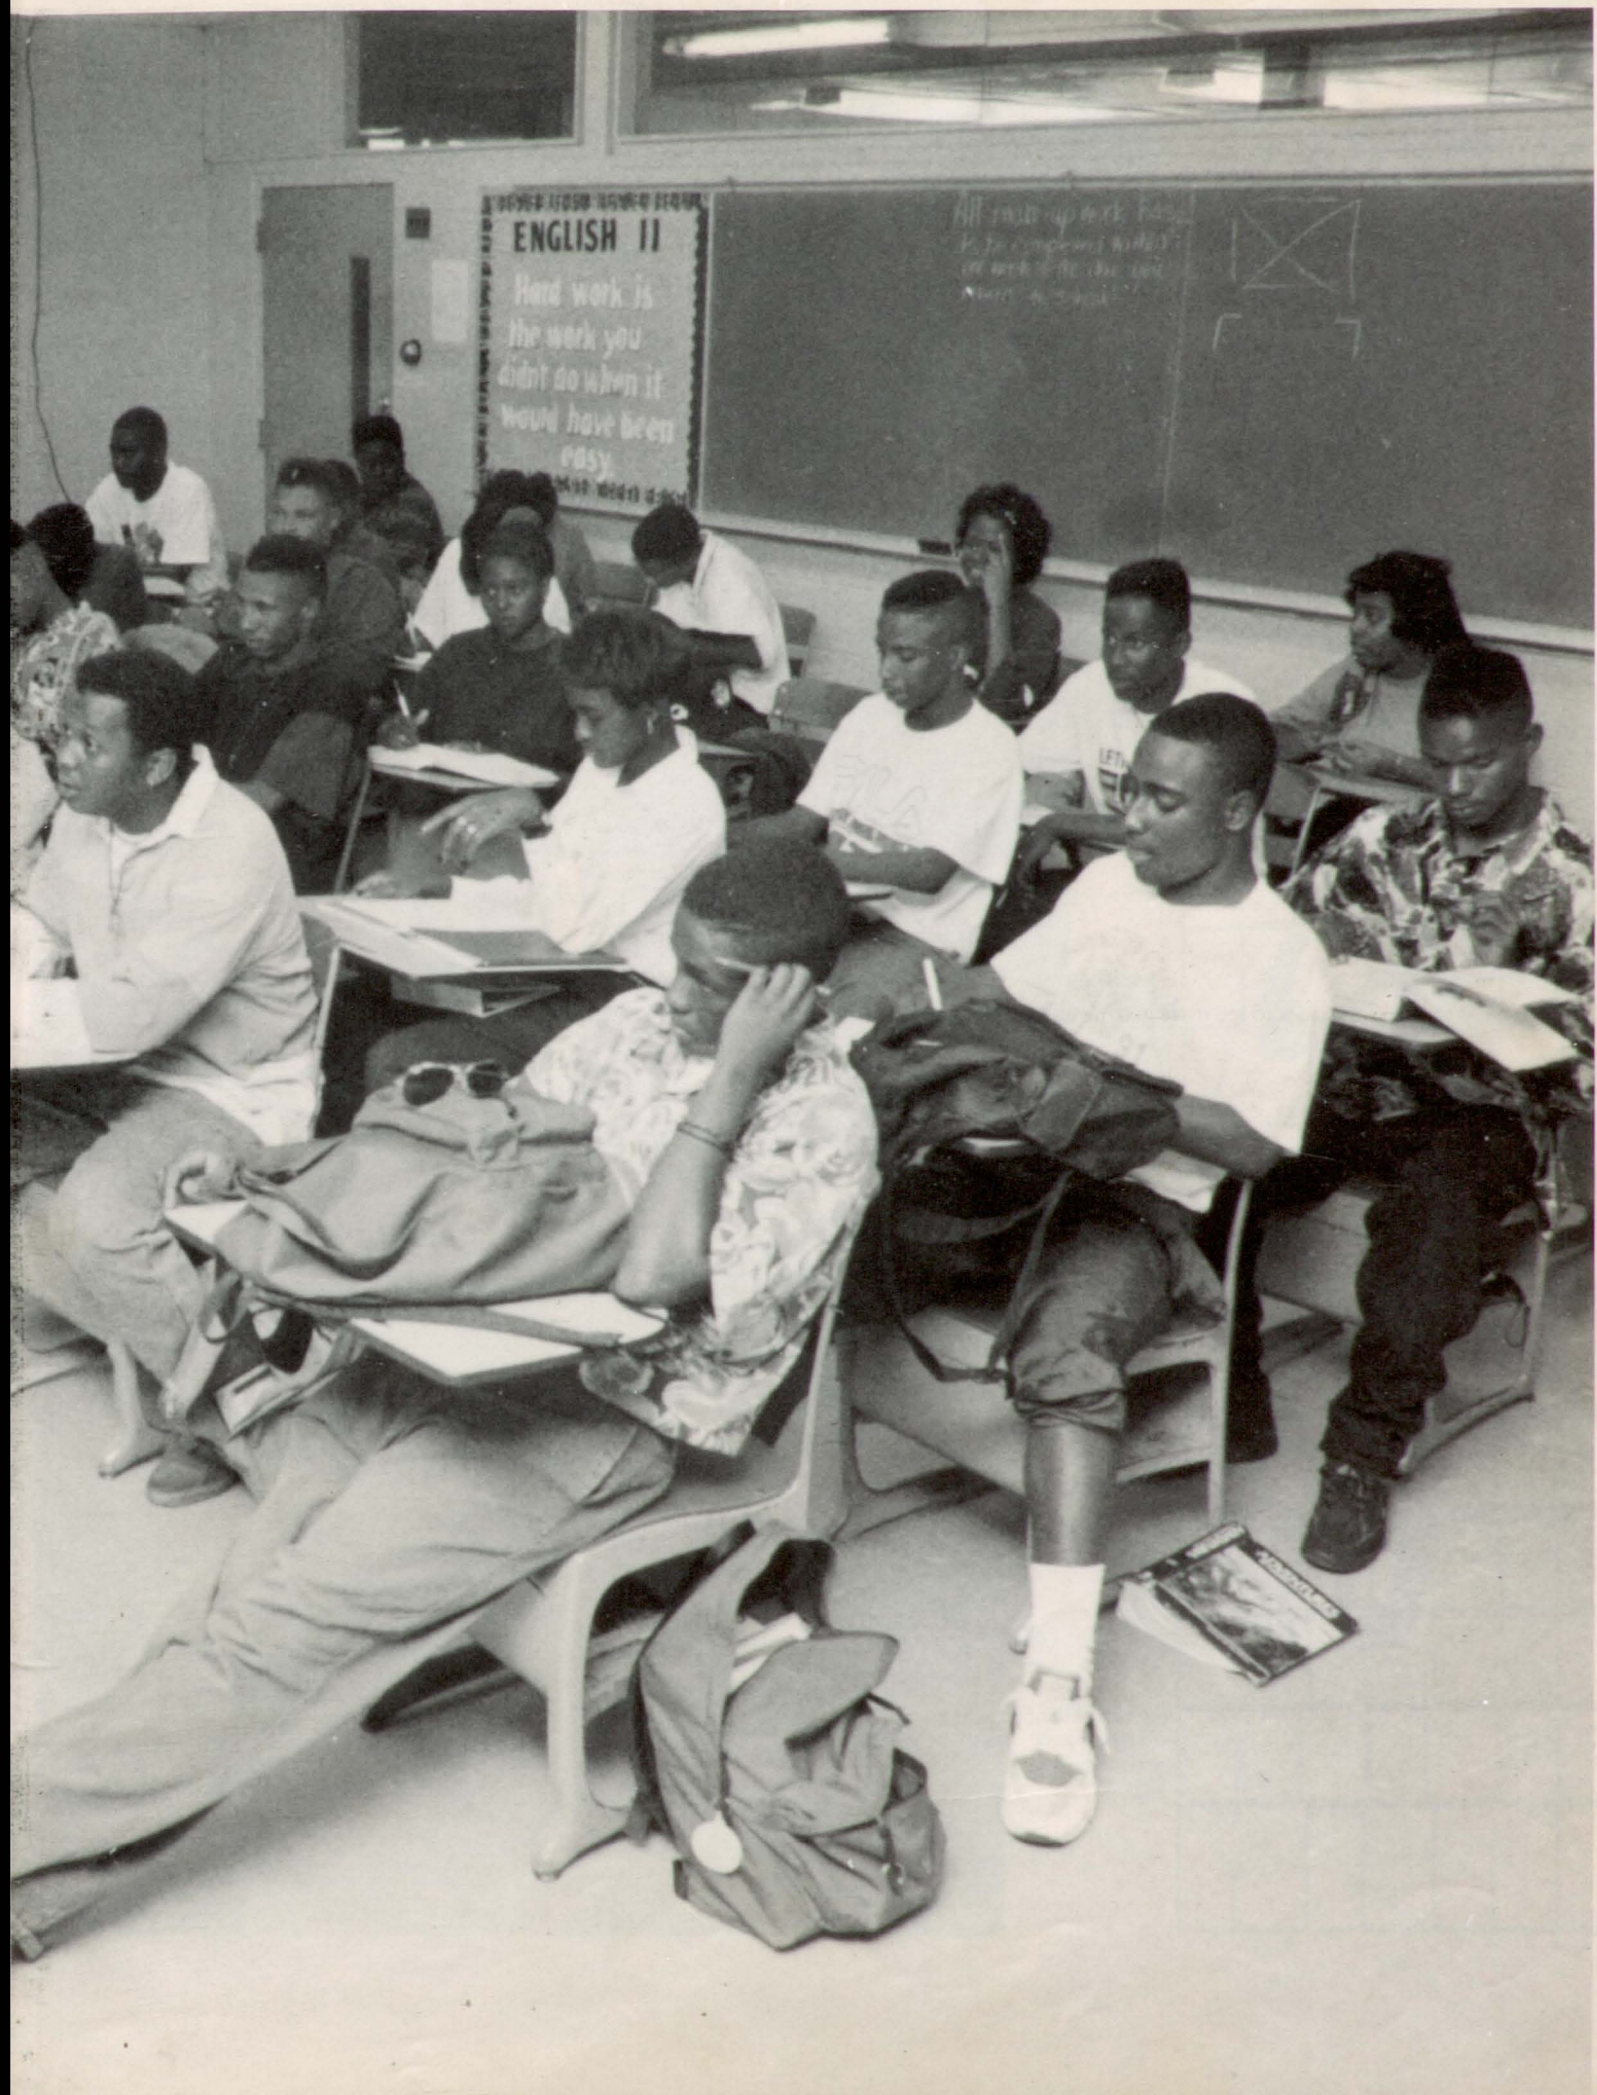

We congratulate each other on making it this far, remembering those who fell behind in their studies. And upon entering a classroom steadily filling with students, we wonder what will be required of us. We wonder if we will measure up to the standards expected of us.

Whatever our feelings, actions, or words when we enter that first classroom on the first day of school, we know we made it back another year and Nothing Can Stop Us Now!!!

— Hollie Eason

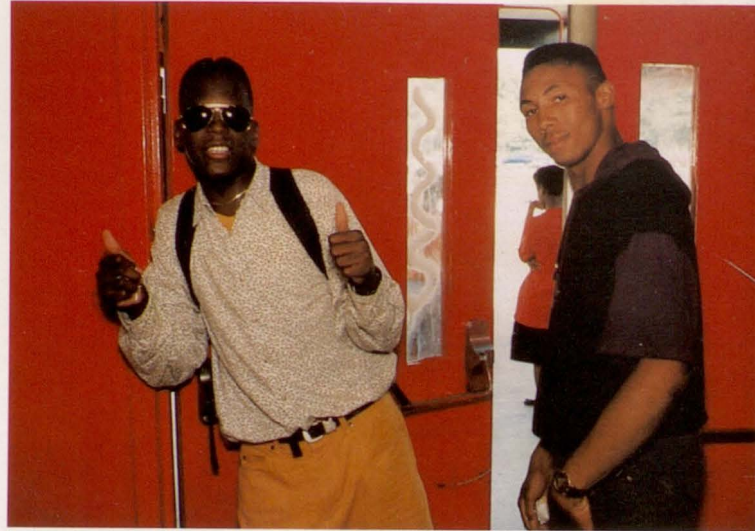

Students getting off to the right start, work hard to make that first progress report look good.

As another conversation passes in another day of yet another week in high school, we at Northeast thoroughly involve ourselves in a diversity of activities, whether in school or away from the educational environment. These activities play significant roles in our student lives. Student life at Northeast is always happening. Conversations range from stories read in English to after school hangouts and favorite team sports.

These daily conversations turn into weekly experiences and eventually past memories with out much notice. The change throughout the year is barely noticeable but when reflected upon, we realize that these conversations make up our days here at Northeast. So whether our student life involves academics or extracurricular activities. You Can't Stop Us Now! — Lyn Echols.

In the Beginning . . .

As school buses and cars rolled into the school's parking lot and students swarmed the school grounds, one thing was clear — a new school year had begun at Northeast.

This year has brought about many changes at Northeast such as the new lunch break schedule, new teachers, and the new counselors. As always with the beginning of a new school year, the students have a different attitude and outlook on school.

Freshman Sherrico Lawson feels that, "she is happy to be at Northeast and wants to make the most of her time."

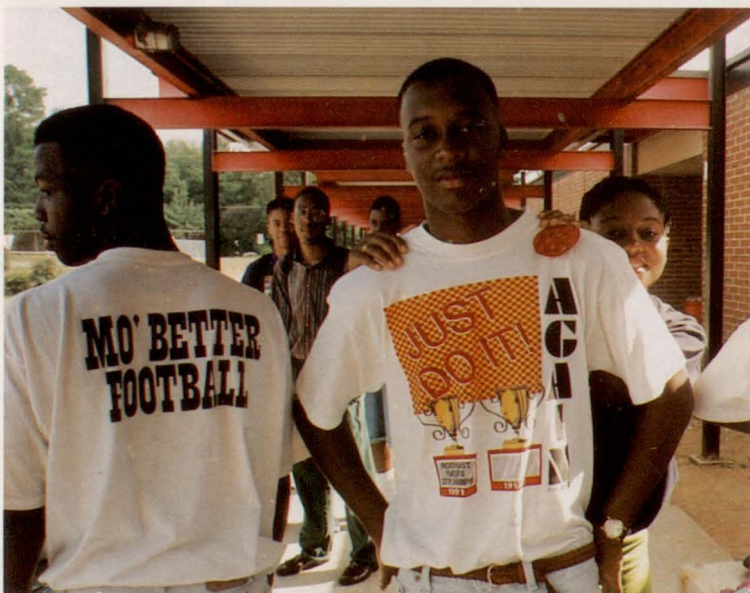

Junior Juan Forsyth says, "I am ready to graduate and go on to college."

Senior Nikale Johnson commented that, "he is ready to graduate, go new places, and meet new people."

Lunch Break. At Northeast the two words are synonymous with hanging out with friends and having a good time. However, students returning this school term found that things had changed. First lunch, which was held last year from 11:40 to 12:25 in the Mark Smith building, is now 10:45 to 11:25. Students on first half have a choice of either eating lunch or hanging out on the breezeway in front of Mark Smith. Second lunch, held last year from 12:35 to 1:20 is now, from 11:40 to 12:20 in Lasseter building. Last year, students who chose not to eat could be found outside between Lasseter and Vocational chilling on the breezeway or sprawled out on the grass. This year things were different. Students were required to remain behind the Lasseter building.

Sophomore Raphael Adams, who has first half, voices his opinion. "It's O.K. because I'm hungry around 3rd period, the food is better this year, and I'm around a lot of my friends." Sophomore Tyrone Mason, who has second half said, "We should be able to be between Lasseter and Vocational like last year."

Even with the time change and the sometimes less than desirable locations, lunch break is always a time for fun with friends or simply relaxing.

When it comes to fashion, you can't stop that Northeast style! Whether it is creating your own style, bringing back old styles, or following the latest trends, Raiders are doing it all. When asked, "do you feel the way a person dresses is important," Junior, Jerome Finney responded, "to a certain extent. It doesn't really say anything about your personality. It does say you like to be neat and clean. I do not think it is important for me to dress nice. I like to do it."

Most people don't dress nice to impress people, they just like to do it. On the other hand, Junior Erika Smith (who is also the President of the fashion conscious club EDE's) says, "I feel that when a person sees you, the first thing they notice is how you dress and I like to make a lasting impression." Some people think that the way a person dresses reflects on how that person feels about himself. Senior, Patrick Gary, says he dresses nice, "because I have a high self-esteem and people are used to seeing me dress nice." Whether it is for your own personal benefit or to make a "lasting impression", you Can't Stop our Northeast Style!

Just Call My Name . . . I'll be There

In the words of TLC "What about your friends, will they let you down, will they be around" . . . This is something that Kelvin Sampson and Undra Thomas don't have to worry about. To understand these young men we must know what kind of guys they are. Kelvin is outgoing and he speaks his mind, where as Undra is shy and talks to others with his eyes. The tight bond between these two has developed from years of friendship. One particular experience back in elementary school is their most memorable. Undra was in the 3rd grade, and Kelvin in the 4th. One day the two got into a little mischief in the store. They took a box containing 24 Snicker's bars. When a female classmate rattled to Kelvin's mother, the boys took it upon themselves to quickly get rid of the evidence before confronted. They ate every last Snicker bar in 30 minutes. Kelvin's mom found no evidence, so she didn't punish the boys. But they actually punished themselves because they made themselves very sick. Some of that creativity has stayed with them into their teenage years. When asked about the fashion statement they are hoping to make with their afros, Kelvin responded, "It's not a fashion statement. We just want to be different. Everyone has the same hairstyle and that's boring." These fellas have three major don'ts. (1) They don't wear tennis shoes (2) They don't wear anything that corresponds with sports. (3) They don't wear Hilfiger shirts. Their reason for all these don'ts is simply that they don't want to be like everyone else. Their ultimate goal is to be unique — unlike any other, and thus far they have been successful. They also wish not to be judged before you know them. To the fellas, they aren't out to take the females but only to seek female-male friendships. Undra is looking forward to college, meeting the right girl, and shopping. Kelvin aspires to be an architect and has an active social life. "Nothing Can Stop this Friendship"!

DEDICATED TO
MRS. JUDY FULTZ
FOR HER HARD WORK AND DEDICATION TO THE NORTHEAST STUDENTS AND THE VALHALLA STAFF

Judy Fultz gives Trenada Grose a lecture on his school work.

Judy Fultz is appalled by a question her student has asked.

Dedication is something that cannot be taught. It comes from years and years of unbroken service to the same establishment. Dedication also comes from truly believing that you are doing what any person would do in your position.

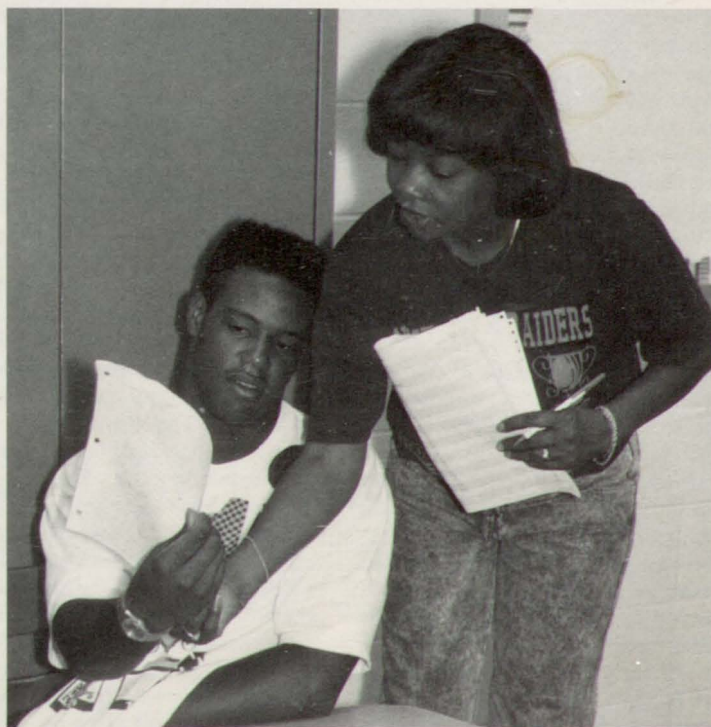

During the 1991-92 school year, Judy Fultz was replaced as yearbook advisor. This was and still is in name only. Due to health problems she was advised not to teach the yearbook class. However, she was replaced only for a short time. Even during her absence she constantly made herself a part of the class making sure things were running smoothly. Because of Mrs. Fultz's dedication she defied her doctor's orders and eventually became the yearbook advisor once again.

The absence of leadership as well as the yearbook company changing representatives, had the yearbook in limbo. Frustration and despair set in with the yearbook staff and everyone had all but thrown up their hands with disgust. Mrs. Fultz became everyone's assurance that we would have a 1991-92 yearbook.

We can never thank or repay Mrs. Fultz for what she did for the yearbook. We cannot express to Mrs. Fultz how much it meant to Northeast students to know that someone truly cares about the only memorium we have of ourselves in high school. If it were not for her persistence, all the special moments that happened in 1991-92 would never have existed. It is good to know that dedication runs rampant at Northeast and especially in Judy Fultz.

Hollie Eason

Judy Fultz reassures student Michael Womack about his paper.

Northeast Then . . .

couldn't stop us then,
can't stop us now

"Seems like yesterday," We all seem to say. Yesterday, when Northeast wasn't segregated. When we were all separated but should not have been, the time when there was Appling, and a high school for the Wildcats. A time when there were Afros, Bobs, bell bottoms, stacks, and leather patch jackets, creating a style in itself.

Everyone got along with each other, there was a sense of togetherness, and this was our family. Confusion was not the issue in the schools, and bitterness was not a part of our daily lives. Spirit-filled Wildcats roamed the halls of Peter G. Appling, the band played, the athletic activities were greatly supported, and the teachers were on a one to one relationship with the students.

As for the teachers, the students loved them, listened to them, talked to them, became frustrated with them, frowned at them, and smiled at them. But they were grateful. Every student was unique, with distinct personalities, within the school they had leaders and followers, givers and takers, dreamers and doers, some satisfied and others dissatisfied. Stopping the Wildcats was the hardest task for anyone who tried. Determined to get out and make it, they continued on keeping that Wildcat pride for years and years through the sixties up until 1970, the last class graduated from Appling that year. Tears were shed, but it was not sadness. The children had received the dream that was thought to be impossible. That dream was to become integrated. To stop receiving left-over books from the other schools, to get the same opportunities that the other students that weren't of color received.

Appling Wildcats were no longer in play, but they were not forgotten, either. The years that had passed were good years. There was hope for the future. Now they all were the Raiders. Blacks and whites together. Northeast was as it should be — together, united as a whole, as real family, as a real school. Prejudice should not have been the issue of the lives of the teenagers that attended. Injustice should not have been the issue, all they should know now is that the dreamers are doers, the satisfied are no longer dissatisfied, and the leaders and followers are not behind one another, but beside each other. Northeast now was working together to prove to the people that this could work.

At first things were of course awkward because the two races were not used to attending the same school. For a while, the black people stayed in their groups and the whites in theirs. It took them a while to get comfortable because there were always some stares and whispers behind their backs. This didn't just happen to blacks but also to the whites that attended this new Northeast. Determined, they strove to get along. As the years passed by, whites became fewer in number, not because the students wanted it that way but their parents wanted it that way. This still didn't stop the Raiders — nothing could then and nothing can now.

Today is yesterday, we are the recipients of time, we are the generation from yesterday. We're making the change for the better. Fantasy then, reality now. Nothing has really changed except the faces. We still have the same spirited teens, the academic achievers and the athletic achievers. The styles haven't changed. Hairstyles such as Afros, and Bobs are on their way back, repeating time as is inevitable. Growing up day by day we still experience problems. There is still injustice in the school for all of us, but that doesn't stop us. There are still conflicts, but we overcome them. Nothing is stopping us from fulfilling the dreams of our parents and ourselves. Their hopes for us can be achieved.

Northeast High School has been stereotyped in newspapers, on television, and in every day conversation, but we still haven't given up. There is something we can do about it. And we do, forget about what others say, show our Raider pride, and nothing can stop us, today, tomorrow, or the future.

Siblings At the Same School

There are several siblings that attend Northeast. Some claim each other and some don't, but we know who you are! When taking pictures of some of the siblings, so much love could be found. No matter how much they dog each other out, we all know they love each other dearly. Junior, Staci McElroy says, "I enjoy the fact that my brother attends the same school that I attend. I feel that it is exciting and we often dress alike." Tiponya Miley has a similar comment, "I love going to the same school as my sister because I don't like to be separated from my sister." Wow! Talk about good family relationships! Another close sibling pair is Trukessa and Elbert Ussery. Trukessa had nothing but nice things to say about her brother. "I'm glad that I attend school with my brother. When I had classes that I couldn't find, he took me to those classes. Now that's a brother for you. He even takes up for me if he hears about me getting into a fight. I love and care for my brother. I also will be there for him when he needs a good sister." Now if that doesn't sound like the perfect TV sister/brother relationship, then I don't know what does! A lot of the brothers said they would take up for their sisters.

On the flip side, some siblings don't like the idea of going to the same school. This is mainly because they feel they can't do anything because their sister/brother might tell on them. To all siblings out there — stay in good with each other because you'll realize in the long run that they are (and always will be) your closest, truest friends.

Driving to School

Driving to school is a privilege you look forward to from the beginning of your high school years. It gives you the chance to exert your independence and sometimes just lets you show off.

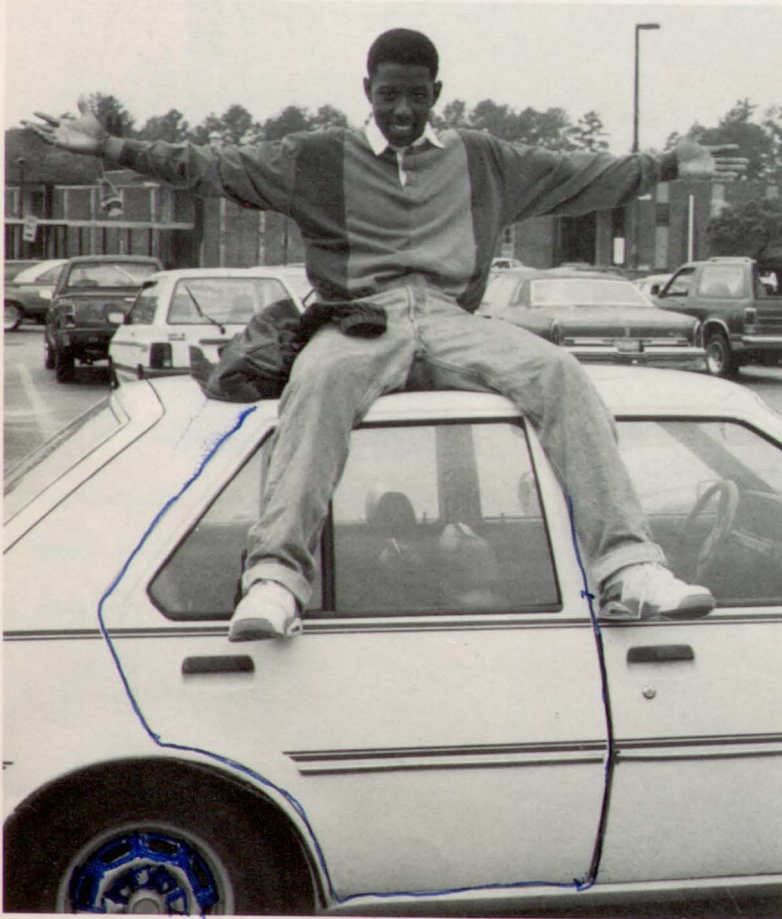

While showing off your car may be a reason to drive, there are others. When you move up in rank in school, you also incur activities. Getting to and from these extra-curricular activities can be a real hassle if you can't drive yourself where you need to go. Senoir Chaquita Martin is one of those individuals. She is a member and an officer of several clubs where attendance is vital. Chaquita Martin says, "I don't see how I got around without my license and my car. Michael Womack began football practice and later began to drive to school. Practice after school necessitated driving for him. Kale Johnson also started driving to school in his junior year. He claims the reason he started driving was "I had places to go, things to do, and people to see." Ronnie Byron is an exception. He began driving at the end of his tenth grade year. He says, "I got tired of riding the bus."

While the majority of Northeast students are still "cheesehound bound", a great number drive to school. The reasons are varied and equally important to all of them. Driving to school is indeed a privilege and a definite boost to one's social life.

Chaquita Martin is all that.

Ronnie Byron says, "I've got the right car baby, Uh Huh!"

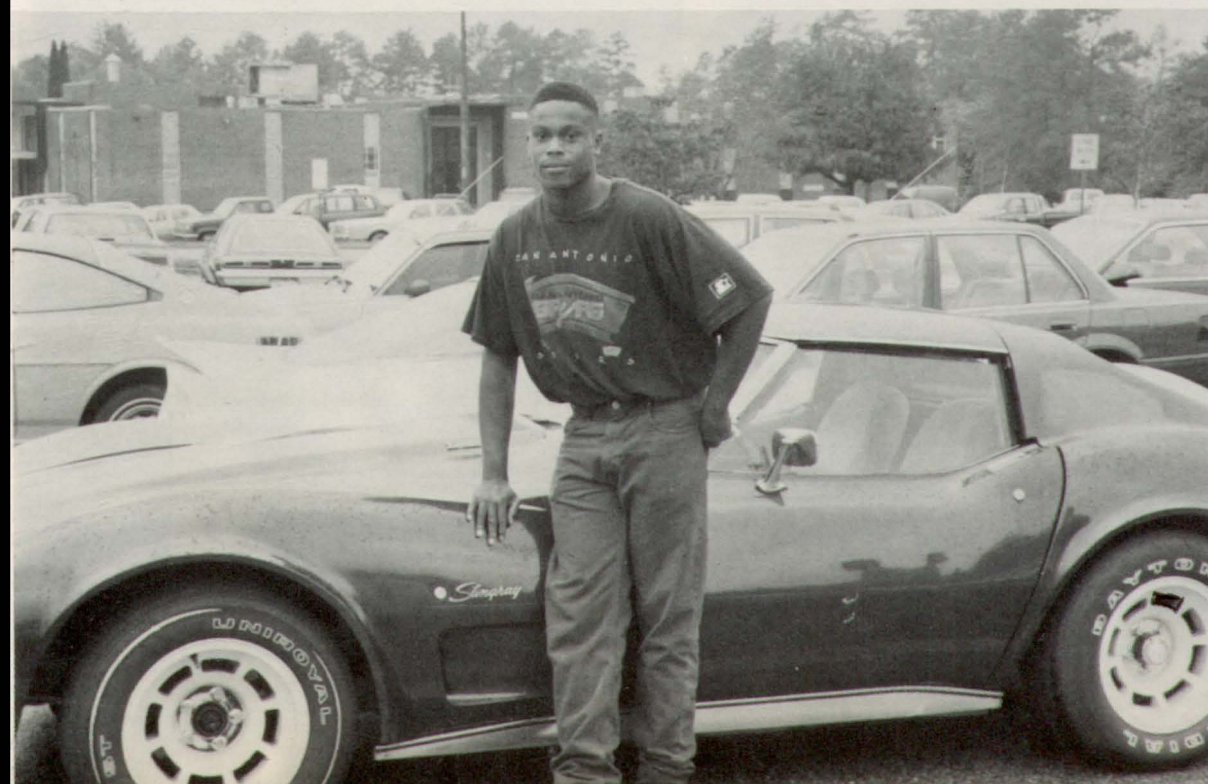

Michael Womack comments, "I got it like that!"

ACADEMICS

English, Mathematics, Social Studies, Science, Foreign Language, and Vocational Technology — what do all of these subjects have in common? They are all a part of our everyday Academic curriculum.

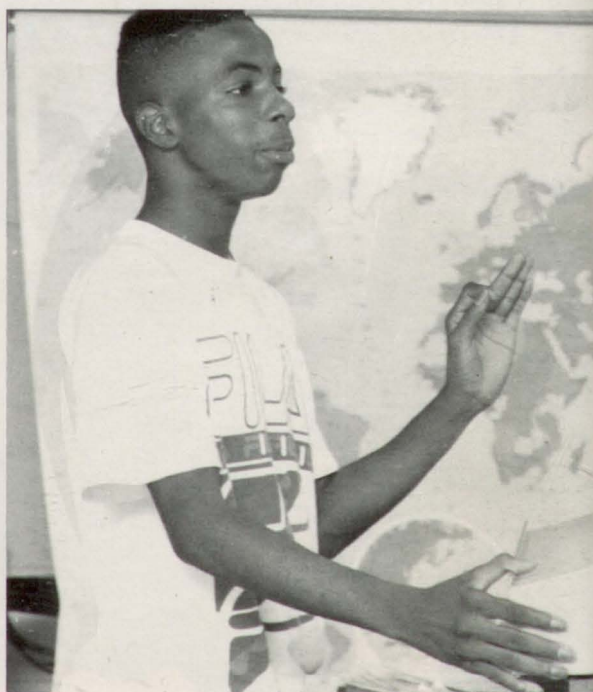

"I will study and get ready and the opportunity will come." As we enter this great institution of learning, we see this quote by Abraham Lincoln on the Lasseter Building. In different ways it inspires many of us to do things to help others and to make things change. For some, it encourages them to study harder and go that extra mile, for others it says to keep up with work you are doing. As long as we continue to strive in our "Academics" — you CAN'T STOP US NOW.

Unstoppable Knowledge

Northeast Academics are unstoppable. Having some of the best teachers in the business, we take pride in being renowned for academic excellence. We have advanced academic classes which include AP English, AP Calculus, AP Biology, and AP American History. We also have a gifted program called Mankind, which is for our most talented students. Northeast competes in academic bowls each year which are divided into math and science. We send a group of bright students to represent us.

We've done well in the past, but we plan to do a most excellent job in the future. Northeast has won numerous trophies in our academic meets. We plan to win more. We are constantly upgrading our educational system. We added the Quest Program to our long line of computer software. This program helps to find occupations, scholarships, grants, and financial aid.

Northeast excels more and more every year in Academics. We will continue to do that so future generations can look at us as an example of academic excellence.

CLUBS

During our high school years, we all like to be a part of something. Here at Northeast, the clubs and organizations are numerous. If you are the highly academic type, you can be in the Beta Club. For those that have interests in Math and Science, there are the Math and Science Clubs. There's even J.R.O.T.C. for the military inclined.

Basically, whatever suits your fancy, we have it here at Northeast. Our clubs and organizations are one thing that "you CAN'T STOP!"

SPORTS

Our sports here at Northeast are second to none. On every weekend, many of our supporters come to cheer our teams on. From September to May, football to baseball, the Raiders can't be beat.

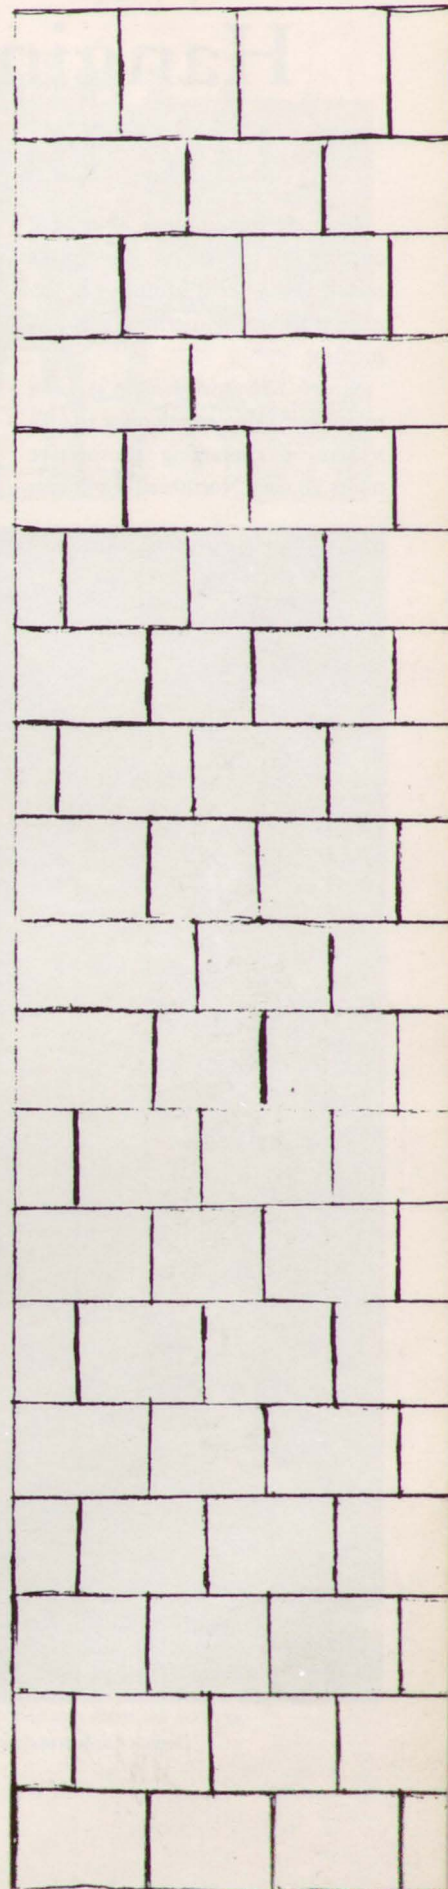

V-for Victory, I-cause I can see, C - Can't Stop Us Now, T-Take it to the top, and O-Oh! Don't Stop, R-Are you ready? Y-Why? Because we're #1!

Then there's the essential part of the spirit; Cheerleaders. This group of high spirited girls keeps us going through the good times and the bad-

Hangin' With The Big Dogs

The '92 football season was full of trials and tribulation. The team's record was no true indicator of the team's ability. Something was just missing.

Coach Edwards plans to go on a major recruiting mission for the 93 season by contacting prospective males all over Northeast. To have a successful program, there has to be faithful involvement and a pool of talent.

Leaving are three year starters, Derrick Caple, Michael Womack, and Terrance Ellis, and two year starters Frank Horne, Ben Morgan, Sanchez Graham, and Marshall Hughes.

Derrick Caple stretches before the big game.

Marshall Hughes looks off as he waits for another stretch.

Varsity Cheerleaders: Doin' It Right!

"We are the raiders and we are proud. . ." Varsity cheerleaders demonstrate exactly how Northeast students should show their school spirit. They're always on a spirit high and represent Norhteast with pride. Being a varsity cheerleader takes hard work, dedication, a good positive attitude, and most of all, spirit

Cheerleaders help keep the fans going during the football and basketball seasons, and through wins and loses. This years team consisted of 13 members, 9 seniors, 2 juniors, and 2 sophomores. The captains were Adina Garrett and Chiquita Glover, who both displayed leadership and positive attitudes to help unite the squad all year.

Although this year's squad is loosing 9 of the most dedicated young women at Northeast High School, the spirit will follow them throughout the years of their lives. This is dedicated to the Norhteast Varsity Senior Cheerleaders for a job well done- Nothing Can Stop Their Raider Spirit!

Ooo Whew It's Hot in Here, 'Cause "B-Team" is in the Atmosphere!!

Being a cheerleader is not easy, it takes alot of hard work, practice, patience, and a positive attitude. Jumps, splits, and cart-wheels are among the activities for cheering.

This year's ninth grade team is headed by Mrs. Gail Lewis who takes time out after school to watch young girls demonstrate their talent and abilities of being cheerleaders. Also they are assisted by varsity cheerleaders who show them the right way of doing a cheer or a jump.

The B-team squad is headed by Mrs. Laura Bobo and consists of eight members, Takeila Booze is the captain. B-team and ninth grade cheerleaders are on their way to the top-Nothing can stop these girls' spirit.

Can't Stop that Raider spirit.. but even they need a break sometimes.

Raiderettes are Dynamite!!

This year the Raiderettes regrouped and kept the winning tradition. They ended the regular season 16-7. The Raiderettes were number one in the sub-region by defeating Warner Robins.

The squad was led by Alicia Wilson who averaged 18 points and 11 rebounds. Following her was Shenita Wilson who averaged 11 points and 3 rebounds. Other members who contributed to the winning team were Anitra Hill-8 points, Benetta Chester-7 points, and Eulanda Waller-5 points.

Senior Shenita Wilson said, "My personal view of this year's basketball season has been enjoyable. We had good consistent play out of our starting five. We also had a supportive bench."

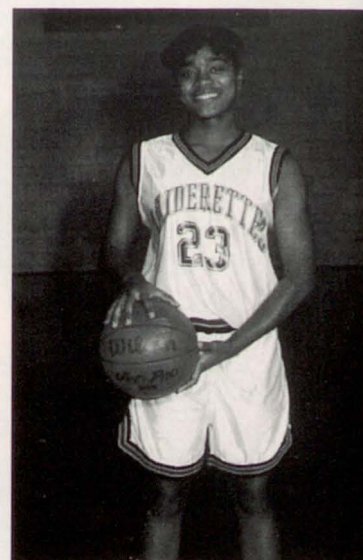

Alicia Wilson adds that, "This season will be one that I will always remember. Even though my expectations were very high for this season, I think that we have accomplished alot.

Eulanda Waller, also a senior, was pleased with the team. "I am proud of what our team accomplished this year. Through the victories and defeats, the team stuck together and encouraged each other to do better.

At the beginning of every season, to fans, it always seems a little slow. Senior Benetta Chester added, "I felt that the season turned out better than I expected it to be. I had my doubts early because we started out with a bad record and we made entirely too many turnovers."

Watch out. . .the Raiders are coming through

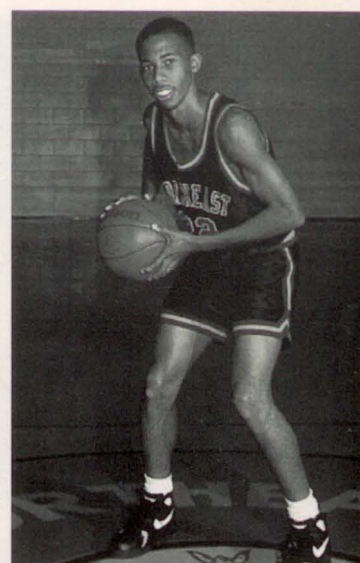

This year's varsity boys basketball team consisted of 6 seniors. The team was led by John Rhodes, Taurus Graham, Dominique Johnson, Kale Johnson, and let's not forget Lorenzo Davis, Sherman Harris, and Keith Johnson.

All these young men have been on the starting lineup, constantly working hard with their other team mates to give our school a victory. Although our guys did not take on the title of 2-AAAA, they truly showed that Raider determination and spirit. Coached by Mr. Walter Johnson and Mr. Lamarr Sarter, the Raiders have led us to many exciting victories with Raider fans cheering them all the way through the season. This season has been tough but memorable and the Raiders convinced many opponents that they were unstoppable.

The ninth grade girls basketball team didn't have over 6 players on their team this year. This small team of five players worked very hard to please themselves and have fun. In the end they had many victories and took the City Championship.

WE 9th GRADE

WYOPED

You can't stop the people at Northeast High School. The Raider spirit felt through the atmosphere. "What atmosphere?", you may ask. The caring atmosphere which is made up of teachers, students, administrators, and other faculty and staff.

People at Northeast take pride in all they do-whether it is Academics, Sports, Community affairs, or any other happenings. After getting to know our Northeast "People", one is rarely disappointed.

Shaundra Walker. . . the perfect errand runner.

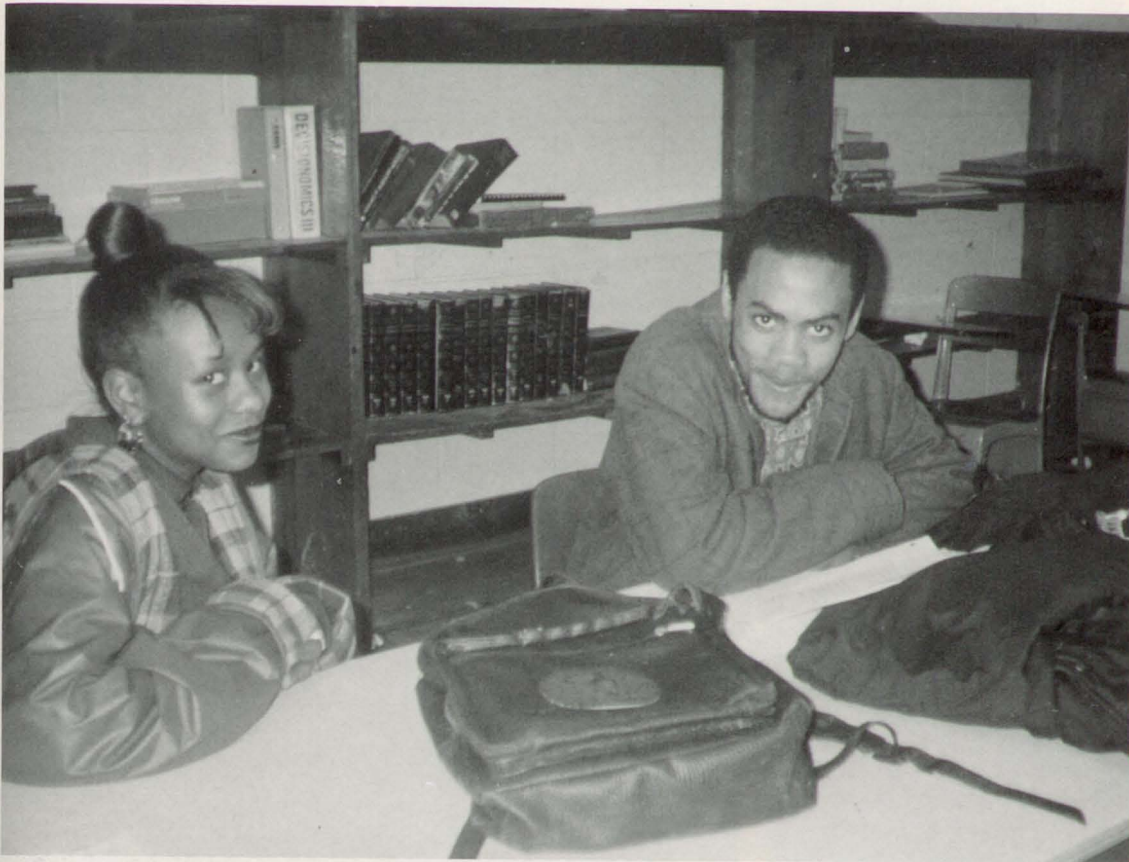

As the day comes to an end, Adina Garrett still finds that smile.

Habla Espanol?

Charlinda Cannady, Luciana Green, and Frank Horne are the perfect lunch trio.

Shimeka Edwards and Patrick Gary take time to chat during the day.

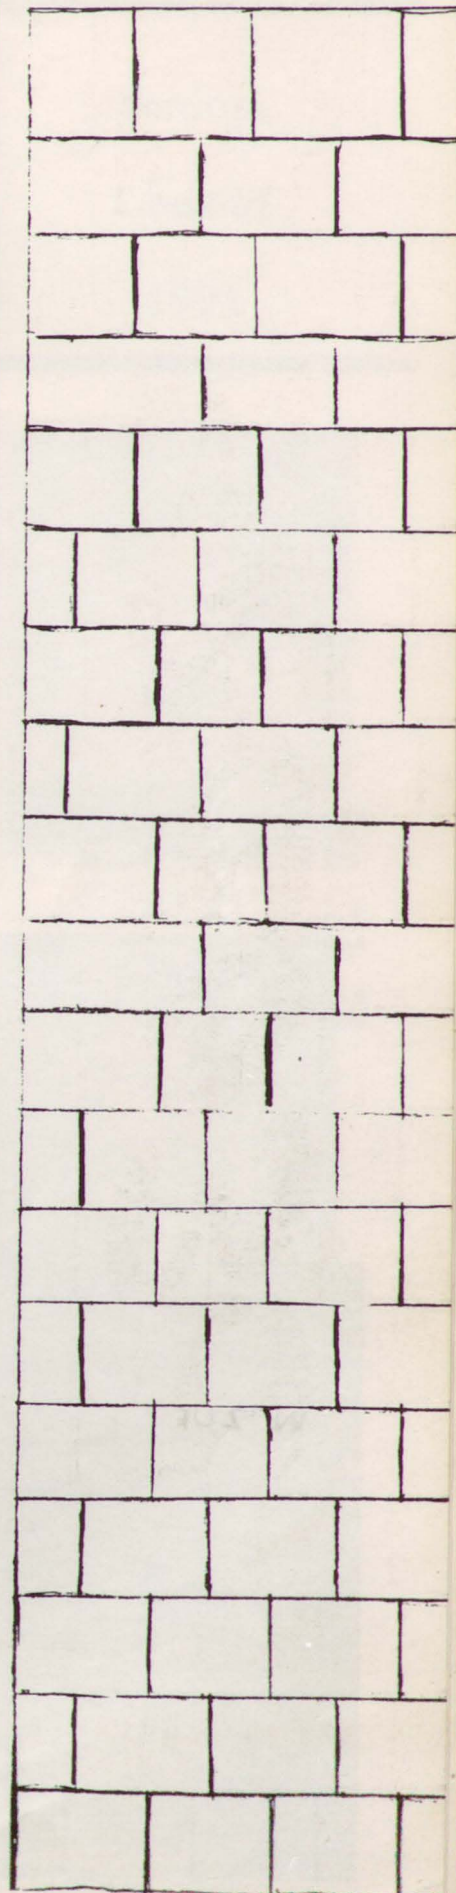

What are your plans Friday night?

"What's the 411?"

Lunchbreak... the best kind of break in school.

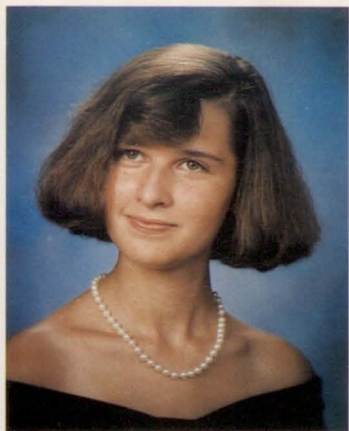

Seniors Andrew Gibbs, Eric Hill, Keith Morgan, and Romas Dunn use their lunch-break for socializing and having fun.

Through the Years

We started out as freshman, "Doing the Right Thing." Frustrated because we didn't get the attention we deserved, the class advisors along with the class officers organized freshman day activities. Then things started looking up.

Our sophomore year came around and we were "Like Nothing Else." We moved to the other side of the gym for assemblies and were considered as "upperclassmen". Therefore we could push the freshman around.

When we were juniors, "Something Good Had Just Gotten Better." We were the most spirited class, hosted the Junior/Senior Prom, and were one step away from being SENIORS. Our football team won the city championship, boys basketball won the region, and we got a new principal. It was one happening year!

So now as we journey through our senior year, knocking on the door of adulthood, we think about all the great times we have had as a class here at Northeast High School. And we now realize that "YOU CAN'T STOP US NOW!"

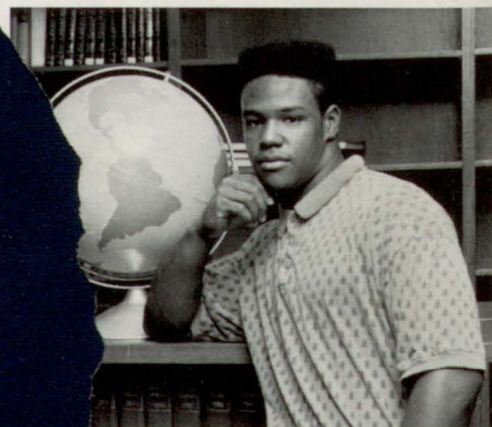

Senior

After graduation many of us have chosen to attend college in the fall to pursue careers in various fields. Some of us have decided to enlist in the armed forces. But no matter what we do after high school, we as seniors of Northeast should do our best to achieve our goals, in order to be successful as possible. Good luck to all of us in ten years. Nothing

A group of Juniors show their class and school spirit.

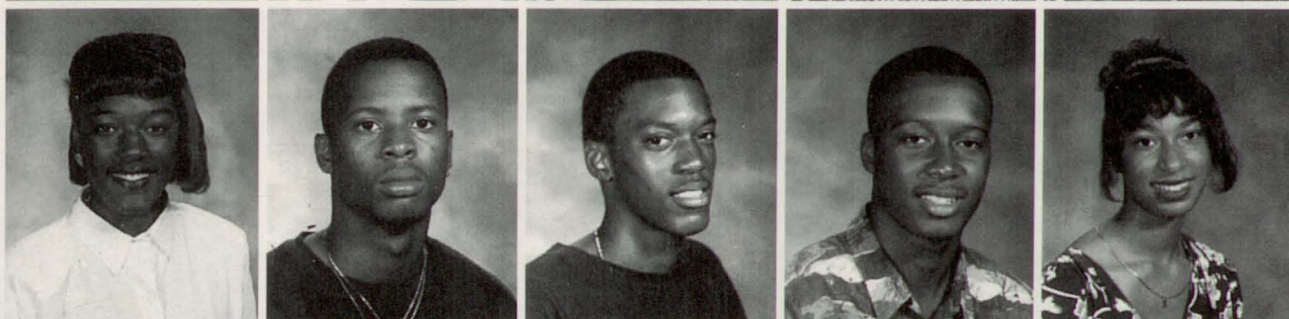

The Class of '94 is like no other class that has ever walked the halls of Northeast. They have brought about many unique ideas including class shirts, band aids, and cookouts. The junior class is like one big family-there have been ups and downs, but when it really counts, juniors are there for each other. Although many class members have been lost for different reasons along the way, juniors still stand together and will continue to do so until we walk down the aisle in 1994. We are definately on our way. So classes of 93', '95, and '96, don't try to understand , it's just a junior "thang"!

Freshly starting her highschool career, Freshman Rhonda Harris takes thorough notes.

Starting fresh in a new school can be a difficult experience for anybody. Imagine how it would be for over 270 students beginning anew in high school. New responsibilities, difficult experiences and large class sizes call for many adjustments.

Adjusting to the time schedule has been the biggest problem the freshmen class faced this year. One student Mark Weeks stated, "Getting to class in five minutes was my biggest adjustment since becoming a freshman."

Overall the freshman class enjoys being students at Northeast. And in winning second place in the spirit chain they've proven themselves to be true Raiders and Raiderettes.

Mrs. Manard, Mrs. Taylor, and Mrs. Fultz show their Halloween spirit.

The faculty and staff of Northeast have proven themselves to be very caring and dedicated to the students they teach and encounter each day. Examples of the commitment to their pupils are the steadfast patience they show while teaching difficult assignments, their willingness to stay after school if necessary to help those not able to comprehend clearly, and their ability to treat every student fairly in any situation. And though we don't often show our appreciation, we owe alot to them.

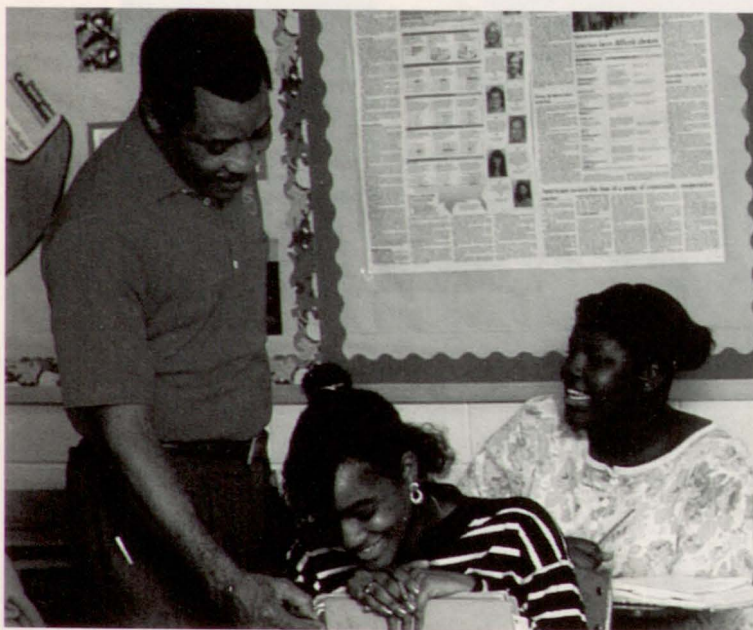

Though he always appears busy, Mr. Johnson is forever ready to give aid to the students.

Ms. Riley and Mrs. Wimberly hold a private conference in the doorway.

Ms. Long shows a student an example of a math problem.

Coach Daniely shows a student the correction answer to a question.

Mr. & Mrs. R. Johnson & Mykel

TO: ANGELA POWELL

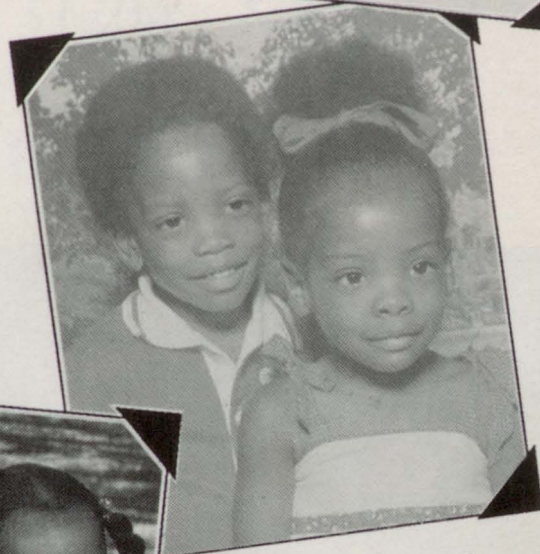

To Angela:

I am proud of your accomplishments that you have so far in your life. Continue to strive for excellence in all that you do. Don't accept anything less. Remember to keep God first in your life and you will always be successful. Again, He gives you the direction for your life but lets you have the opportunity to choose which path you want to take and make your own decisions. If you have any trouble deciding what's right or wrong, I will be there for you to help you. I will always be a mother, friend, and counselor for you. Always be yourself and like nothing else.

Love your second Mother,
Mary

WELCOME

In our complex world today, there are many things that affect us day to day. Some occur overseas and don't seem to involve us directly, while others are close at hand.

Although the Northeast Macon community is small in size, the events held here are grand in scale. From the Clinton/Gore campaign coming to our city to the R.O.T.C. parades in Rodney King's honor, events get better and better. Once you arrive in Northeast territory, you won't want to leave.

COMMUNITY PRIDE

Life during high school sometimes seems like the only thing going on. However, the Macon community continues on the outside while we thrive between the walls of Northeast High. This year was a special one for community activities in Macon. The Braves' Division Championship, Vice-president Al Gore's visit to Central High School, President Clinton's appearance at City Hall and Northeast's J. R. O. T. C. performing at the annual Rodney Davis parade were just a few major events in our exciting community in 1992-1993.

The Year in Pictures

As the year winds down and the seniors are ready to drop off the face of Northeast, they leave their memories, spirit, and hopes to all the underclassmen. In this segment, we have tried to reveal a year in pictures uniting all of the classes together. This section is not just a "Senior Bang", or a "Junior Flang", neither a "Sophomore Clang", nor a "Freshman Swang", it's just a "School Thang".

To Angela Powell,

I hope your future is rewarding and most fulfilling. May all your dreams come true because you have worked so hard for 12 years to get to where you are now. Continue to strive to be number one because at the top is where you deserve to be.

Last Thought. . .

It has really been a pleasure to work on the Valhalla 1992 and 1993 yearbook staffs. I am glad I had this prestigious opportunity to become one of the editors this year.

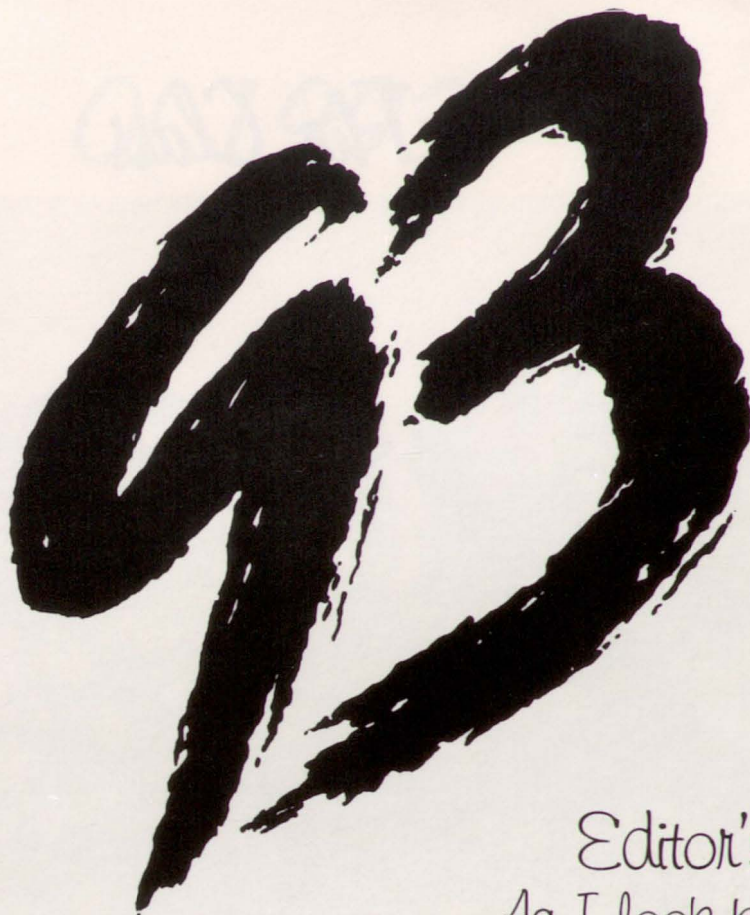

The unforgettable memories from this year will always be a constant reminder of the unstoppable year I have had.

I would like to thank all my teachers for their patience and understanding they had with me, as being one of the editors.

To my staff, I would like to congratulate each of you that put extra efforts in the production of this book. I know I seemed to get on your nerves and act like I was everything, but this book is my pride and joy. I have the ability to say that, "I was a vital part in the completion of the Valhalla 1993."

As I end my year as editor and leave NE, I would like to say that this year was truly "unforgettable".

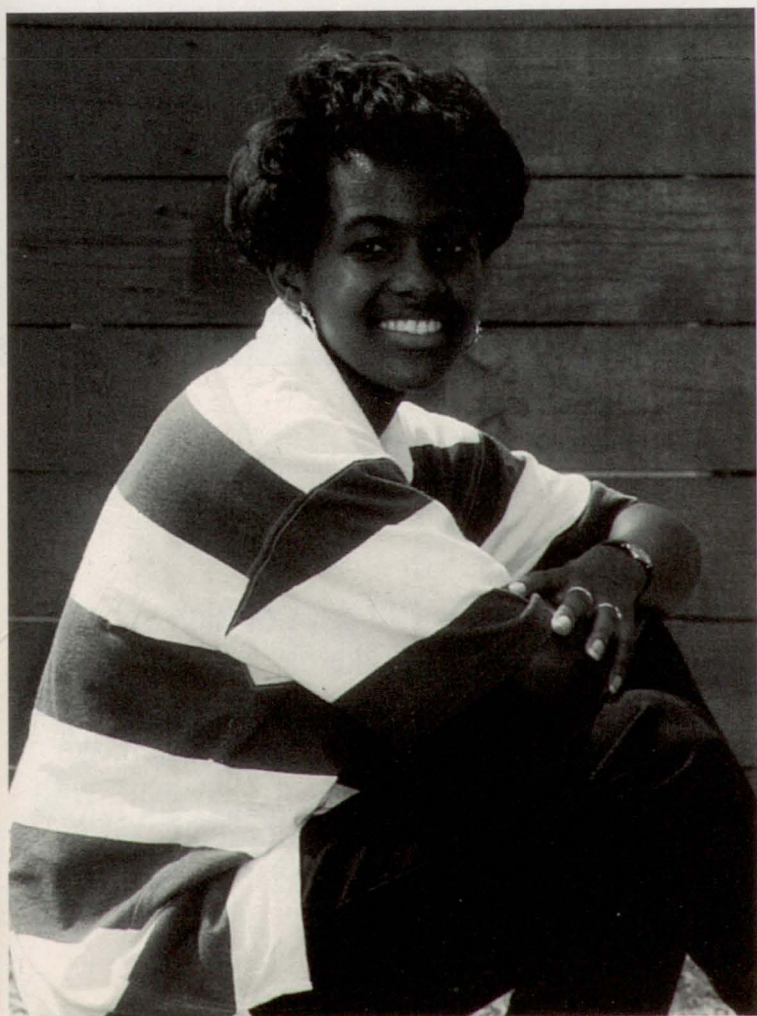

Editor's Notes

As I look back on this year, I can't believe that we (the staff) accomplished so much. Eventhough we started out slow, I knew with a team effort, we could do just fine.

Now that we have finished the 1992-1993 Valhalla Yearbook, I feel it is something we can be proud of.

In closing, I want to wish the 92-93 yearbook staff "Good Luck" in the very near future. To those of us who were on the 91-92 staff, it's been real!

The Class

Where Do We

After 720 days of high school, Seniors, like us, are ready to graduate. Although we look toward graduation with anticipation, we remember our past four years with sincere adoration.
